JUDGE WROE TAKEN SUDDENLY.

With Rheumatism Which Affected His Heart. City Judge For Nearly Four Years.

THREE CHILDREN SURVIVE.

Judge Thomas Wroe, who has been Police Judge of this city for nearly four years died at his home Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. Judge Wroe had been confined to bed with rheumatism for two years and on the day of his death his family remarked that he had seemed better and more cheerful than he had at any time during his illness. Just two hours before he expired he transacted business with one of his business associates. He thought that rheumatism had weakened his heart which caused death.

The funeral will be held from his family residence Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be conducted by Rev. A. N. Smith and interment will take place in the Cloverport cemetery. Judge Wroe was sixty-seven years old. He came here from Breckinridge county, the place of his birth about twenty-five years ago. He taught school in both counties for seventeen years and was afterwards elected Sheriff of Breckinridge county. He would have served his fourth year as City Police Judge in January 1918.

Judge Wroe united with the Methodist church in his teens. He was also a member of the Knights of Pythias Lodge. He was a man who was highly esteemed among the yellow citizens and was very anxious for his family and his children, four of whom have all been useful in helping to eliminate crime in the world by teaching the youth, reflect the credit of a father's sound judgement and safe teachings. Judge Wroe was especially gifted with a happy disposition. All during his illness he was anxious to live even though he was afflicted with ill health.

Besides his widow he is survived by eight children who are: Mr. Harwood Wroe of Irvington, Ky., Almond Wroe of Ashland, Ky., Miss Margaret Wroe, Miss Julia Wroe, Miss Eva Wroe, Mrs. Carl Britton, William Wroe and Alfred Wroe of this city, also five grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. S. D. Bruner of Pellville, Ky.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE CONVENES

In Louisville This Week—Nearly 600 Delegates Attend and Twice as Many Visitors.

The one hundred and seventeenth annual session of the Masonic Grand Lodge convened in Louisville Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Many important business matters will come before the lodge, which will be in session until Thursday afternoon. One matter of importance will be the discussion and vote taken as to the Grand Lodge purchasing some Liberty Loan Bonds. On Thursday evening a banquet will be given at Hotel Henry Waterson in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons. There are 599 delegates in attendance and probably twice that many visitors. W. A. Cockerill, Master of the Cloverport Lodge; Rev. A. N. Couch and L. O. Ows, from this city; Frank Peyton and Jesse Whitworth, of Harboursburg, are among the delegates.

Attends House Party.

Lizzie Hall went to Muldraugh to attend a house party given by Mrs. Frank Harrington in honor of her daughter, Miss Marguerite Harrington of Washington D. C.

WIDOW OF JOHN THIXTON GETS HALF SHARE.

Of Bank and Other Stocks. 17 Shares From Bank of Cloverport. Bridenbach Divorce Suit.

Judge R. W. Slack, returned Wednesday night from Williamsburg, Ky., where he has been for the tested election case, and was present for the opening of circuit court Thursday morning. He and Special Judge William M. Reed divided the time on the bench Thursday. Judge Reed left in the afternoon for his home. Several orders were given by the court during the day. In the case of Charles G. Thixton, admr., et al., vs. Fannie G. Thixton, et al., it appeared from the report of the master commissioner filed Aug. 15, that Fannie G. Thixton, wife of John Thixton, deceased, is entitled to receive one-half of the bank and other stocks held by the deceased at the time of his death and an agreement was reached by which Fannie G. Thixton, receives five shares of the stock of the U. S. National Bank; two and one-half shares of the Fourth-street Bank; fifty shares of the Farmers Deposit Bank, Braidenburg, Ky.; seventeen shares of the Bank of Cloverport; fifteen shares of the common stock of the Owensboro Plaining Mill, and six shares of the preferred stock of the same concern.

In the divorce suit of Leona Bridenbach against James Bridenbach the defendant was ordered to pay his wife $40 a month temporary alimony beginning Oct. 1. The court also directed that Bridenbach be allowed to see his children three times a week at specified hours. In the case of the Bank of Harboursburg and Trust Co., trustee for Elizabeth Sauer Bridenbach, vs. Elizabeth Sauer Bridenbach and Ed. Breidenbach, her husband, it was ordered that a 125-acre farm be sold and four-tenths of the proceeds the defendant's interest, be paid to her.—Owensboro Messenger.

A BOON TO 300,000 CIVIL WAR WIDOWS

Giving $25 a Month to Widows of the Civil and Spanish Wars and Philippine Insurrection.

Something that will be of interest and good news to the 300,000 war widows in America is the new pension bill which has passed and approved by the President. The new bill gives $25 a month to all widows of the Civil and Spanish wars and Philippine Insurrection. It reads thus:

Section 314 That from and after the passage of this Act the rate of pension for a widow of an officer or enlisted man of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States who served in the Civil War, the war with Spain, or the Philippine insurrection, now on the pension roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll, and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be $25 per month; and nothing herein shall be construed to affect the additional allowance provided by existing pension laws on account of a helpless child or child under sixteen years of age: Provided, however, That this Act shall not be so construed as to reduce any pension under any Act, public or private: And provided further, That the provisions of this section shall be administered, executed, and enforced by the Commissioner of Pensions.—Passed by the Senate and House of Representatives, and approved by the President, October 6, 1917.

Mr. Platt Lewis Dead.

Mr. Adrain Platt Lewis, formerly of Louisville, died at 2 o'clock Monday morning at Boswell, Ariz., where he went three years ago because of ill health. He was a member of the Pendergast Club and was well known here. He was a son of the late Adrain C. Lewis. He is survived by a brother, Leon P. Lewis, of this city, and two sisters, Miss Viola Lewis, who was with him at the time of his death, and Miss Edith Lewis, of Irvington, Ky. He formerly traveled for the Royal Panama Hat Company, of New York City. The body will be brought here and the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, at the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be at Cave Hill cemetery.—Louisville Herald.

J. W. HENSON ANNOUNCES FOR COURT OF APPEALS.

Following is what the Henderson Gleaser has to say of Judge Henson in regard to his candidacy for Appellate Judge of the Second district. Hon. J. W. Henson will make the race for Judge of the Court of Appeals for the Second district.

This announcement of great importance to the people of sixteen counties in Western Kentucky, is duly authorized by Judge Henson himself, and it goes without saying that this will be a piece of political news of general state interest. The official announcement from Judge Henson does not come until favorable expression to the Henderson man had been made by practically every newspaper in Judge Settle's portion of the district. Mr. Settle is the present judge and he seeks a third term at the hands of the voters of this district. Without impugning the ability or efficiency of Judge Settle, leaders in the several counties of the district take the position that there are other good men in the Second district who should not die of old age waiting for a chance for recognition.

These men have turned to Judge J. W. Henson, of Henderson, in recognition of a distinguished and spotless record on the circuit court bench, and Judge Henson has decided to make the race only after repeated personal and published assurances of support.

Clean and Able

Few men stand higher in Kentucky than J. W. Henson. Farm-raised, self-educated and self-achieving, none begrudge him the success that he has already achieved and all will meet his announcement with "Sure Judge, we're for you. Its coming to you."

Twelve years Judge Henson served the good people of this circuit. How well?

"SERVE BY SAVING."

Big Drive to Win Food Saving Pledges Is on in Kentucky for Those Who Remain at Home to Serve.

"Food Will Win the War"—this the battle cry?

"Serve by Saving"—this is the slogan of every patriotic American woman, eager to do her bit in order that husband or son, father or brother engaged in the mighty task of making the world safe for democracy may not be hampered through food privation in their glorious undertaking!

The great drive is under way, and according to Fred M. Sackett, Federal Food Administrator for Kentucky, advice from Washington is to the effect that the vast majority of the 22,000,000 families in the United States will volunteer to co-operate with the Food Administration in the saving of food in order that our army and the armies of our allies will be fed and the great war won. There is ample evidence at hand, Mr. Sackett says, to convince him that Kentucky will splendidly account for herself in the number of pledges obtained.

To date between 78 and 80 counties in the State have been organized. Churches, Schools, community leagues and newspapers are rendering invaluable service assisting in every possible way government officials whose duty it is to impress upon the American people the importance of eliminating wastage in the distribution and consumption of food stocks.

COMMUNITY FARMING AT McQUADY

Kentucky's Motto Being Carried Out Among These Farmers—They Buy and Sell in Large Quantities.

THEIR MEMBERSHIP IS 125.

The McQuady Farmers Union is a live, active organization of farmers who are working and co-operating in farm work and buying and selling their products as a unit. This organization has a membership of 125 farmers with dues all paid up. They meet twice a month to talk over their business, get a line on prices for what they have to sell and buy, and the best bidder gets their products and their orders. By doing this the small farmer with one or two hogs or cattle gets as much as the man with a big bunch. They sell in car load lots. In buying the same plan is pursued. Each farmer puts in his order for so many tons of fertilizer, and they are all lumped together and one man places the order for the whole lot and pays the cash. In this way a saving of $3,000 has been made for the members of this organization.

Among their recent purchases were 11,000 bushels of coal and 200 tons of fertilizer, besides a number of farm implements, thoroughbred cattle and hogs. Some recent sales of hogs by the members were: J. E. Lewis 26 head for $780, Jas. E. Hinton 6 head for $270, Hugh Hayercraft 10 head for $450, Beavin & Knue 29 head for $1,050, two in this bunch brought $130; L. H. Taul 12 head for $350, Gid Squires 13 head for $350. Beard Bros. were the purchasers. The Union bought 12 Akron corn cutters for use of its members.

The McQuady National Farm Loan Association, organized by the Farmers Union with a membership of twenty, have made application for a loan of $50,000 from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville. This loan has been approved and a part of the money is already in hand. It will be used for the improvement of their farms and buying stock and labor saving farm implements.

A strong and active camp of Modern Woodmen of America, with a membership of 65, is some of the work of the Union.

Their meeting place is in the hall under St. Mary's of the Woods Catholic church. It is furnished with lights and seats and is also equipped with a stage for holding entertainments. It is open to the whole community of Catholics and Protestants who work together for the upbuilding of the community.

Rev. J. F. Knue, the pastor of St. Mary's, takes an active part in all community movements for the betterment of the farmers and the community in general.

Miss Leonora McGavock, Cloverport.

Each of these women will have charge of a school division and will ask the assistance of every school teacher in the county besides a number of women.

VIC ROBERTSON'S SALE DRAWS CROWD

In Spite of the Cold North West Winds. Mr. Dunn, Auctioneer Worked to Get Folks Take Hold.

Vic Robertson sale last week attracted a large crowd of farmers and stock men from all over Breckinridge, Meade, Grayson, Hancock, Ohio and Daviess counties.

It was a cold bitter day, the wind blowing a perfect hurricane and as cold as the North West winds ever get in October. But notwithstanding the weather the sale went on just the same.

There was a good show of cattle, mules and sheep. They were in pens so they could be seen to advantage. The arrangements of the sale were in keeping with Mr. Robertson's way of doing things right up to date and as good as they have in counties where they make it a business of selling at public auction.

The auctioneer, Mr. Dunn was from Danville, Ky., a fine gentleman and an auctioneer that knew his business and how to handle it. He said there was nothing wrong with the sale but the weather. His crowd was cold and chilly.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNODS MET LAST WEEK

In Louisville. Three Hundred Delegates Attend. New Moderators Elected for Northern and Southern Synods.

With three hundred delegates and visitors in attendance, both Northern and Southern Synods of the Presbyterian Church in Kentucky convened in Louisville Tuesday night and continued through Thursday. The Southern Synod convened at the Highland Presbyterian Church while the Northern Synod convened at the Fourth Avenue Church.

The opening services of the two synods were devoted to the annual sermon by the retiring moderator and the election of a moderator for the ensuing year. Dr. Thomas Cummings, Henderson, delivered the sermon at the Highland Church, while Dr. Aquila Webb, of the Warren Memorial Church, Louisville delivered the sermon at the Fourth Avenue Church.

Immediately following the sermons officers for the ensuing year were elected by the two Synods as follows: Southern Synod—Rev. W. Y. Davis, Louisville, moderator and Rev. I. C. Hunt, Covington, reading clerk. The Northern Synod elected Rev. John A. Troxier, Smith Grove, Ky., moderator, which was the only officer named at the opening session.

Rev. R. E. Reeves and S. C. Dowell, Irvington and L. V. Chapin of this city were delegates from this county who attended the meeting.

and wouldn't take hold. He complimented the people, said they were as good looking and as well clad as any crowd he ever talked to. Nothing is the matter with them only they were just a little backward about taking hold of his proposition. Said the land was as good as any in the Blue Grass, all it needed he said was plowing deep, planting peas, grass and clover.

The farm was first offered. A farmer from Daviess county bid $4,000, then it jumped by hundreds to $4,800 was reached and knocked off to Frank Rupert.

Then the mules and cattle were put under the hammer.

J. D. Mastin got the first pair for $355.00.

Thus, Beard a pair for $140.00.

John Mason 2 pair and one mule for $795.00.

Geo. Liddan 3 cows and calves $386.

E. L. Robertson 9 cows and 7 calves $1,000.

15 Thoroughbred heifers $870.

J. M. Howard 10 head cattle $520.

15 Angus heifers $870. Ranch of sheep at $11 per head.

Frank Rupert 7 head Angus Calves $266.

John Mason 4 Angus Calves $92. 15 Angus heifers $38.50 per head.

Patriotic Pythian War Relief Fund.

The Knights of Pythias Lodge of America have organized a Pythian War relief Commission to raise a fund of $500,000 to assist the Pythian men who are on the firing line and should the worse come to them their families are to be given assistance.

The Knights of Pythias was the first fraternal society to take steps to raise a war relief fund and they are doing it by this method. "One dollar per member—no unwilling dollars wanted."

URGES THE ADOPTION OF THE AMENDMENT

At a recent meeting of the Bowling Green Chamber of Commerce strong resolutions were adopted endorsing the Constitutional amendment, authorizing telephone companies to purchase competing lines. A committee was also appointed to devise ways and means to bring the matter to the attention of the voters of the state.

The resolutions follow: "Whereas, there will be submitted to the voters at the regular November Election, 1917, a constitutional amendment authorizing a telephone company to purchase the lines and equipment of other companies serving the same locality, by and with the approval of the government bodies of the states served and of the state authorities.

"Be it resolved, That the Bowling Green and Warren County Chamber of Commerce heartily recommends the adoption of said amendment and urges the voters everywhere in the state not to fail to vote for same.

"Resolved, That the President of the Chamber of Commerce is authorized and requested to appoint a committee to devise ways and means of bringing to the attention of the voters the advantages that will accrue from the adoption of said amendment."

President J. Mott Williams appointed the following committee:

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache, headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning, do not delay. In such cases the kidneys often need help.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Cloverport residents desire more convincing proof of their effectiveness than the statement of a Cloverport woman who has tried them and willingly testifies to their worth?

Mrs. E. N. Beauchamp, Maple St., Cloverport, says: "Several years ago I found it necessary to use a kidney remedy and as I had heard of Doan's Kidney Pills so frequently I got a box. They proved perfectly satisfactory in relieving me of kidney complaint. I gladly advise anyone to get a box or so at Fisher's Drug Store if troubled with lame back or irregular action of the kidneys."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Beauchamp. Foster-Millburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

"Slacker" Gets Year in Prison.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Judge Evans in Federal court today sentenced Perry Morris Hale to the penitentiary for one year and one day for failure to register, and thrashed out the case of James Beeler, of Louisville, who did not register because he believed in Socialism. A number of other cases of "slackers" were disposed of during the morning session.

The penalty imposed upon Hale is one of the heaviest inflicted under the new law since it went into effect. Judge Evans said he thought it to be the worst case brought to his attention. Hale, who lives seven miles from Hardinsburg in Breckinridge county, was found guilty by a jury, which was only in the jury room about five minutes.

FREIGHT CAR SPACE WASTED BY BUYERS NOT SHIPPERS.

Of Commodities, As Shown By
Reports From D. I. Forsyth
Of The Railroad War Board.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—How freight-car space is wasted by buyers not shippers of commodities in bulk is shown by reports just received by D. I. Forsyth, vice chairman of the Chicago Car Service Committee of the Railroad War Board.

Less than 2 per cent of the freight cars in the United States have a marked capacity of 50,000 pounds or less, yet 60 per cent of the total orders placed with shippers call for lots of 50,000 pounds or less.

In other words, over 98 per cent of the freight cars could carry larger loads than shippers can put in them, because of weight restriction imposed in 60 per cent of the orders placed by buyers.

The average carrying capacity, per freight car is 30,000 pounds, but the average load per car today is hardly half as much, despite all efforts to secure more intensive loading.

Only 5 per cent of the freight cars in this country have a capacity of less than 30,000 pounds. Thirty per cent will carry 30,000 pounds; 35 per cent 35,000 pounds and 30 per cent 40,000 pounds. Yet 80 per cent of the orders of buyers confine the loading of cars by shippers to 30,000 pounds or less.

There is today and will be while the war lasts a demand for many more freight cars than the railroads can supply," said Mr. Forsyth. "The demand will increase but the number of cars can not be increased to any appreciable extent in the near future. Shippers cannot send a buyer more than he orders. Therefore, the remedy for wastage of freight car space lies mainly with buyers of commodities in bulk. They should quit using the car destroying trade units established in the old days when cars were small, and increase their orders in proportion to the increase in capacity of cars.

"Some shippers, realizing how overburdened the railroads are and how vital a factor they are in this awful war crisis, have refused to book orders when to do so would cause a waste of space. The railroads do not ask the shipper to go that far, however; they merely ask to be permitted to join in efforts to meet the wishes of buyers, without the necessity of wasting car space; to urge the buyer to increase his order before insisting upon shipment.

"When full loading to one consignee cannot be arranged, the plan of placing two consignments in one car must be resorted to, in order that a car may do full duty at least a portion of the trip. This double loading, however, is an expedient which is not satisfactory to either shippers, consignee or carrier. It can be abolished if buyers will only order full carloads."

Besides her husband, John Muldoon, she leaves one son, Patrick Muldoon, and four daughters, Misses Bridget, Kathryn, Mary and Anna Mae Muldoon, all of Dante. We failed to learn if her brother, J. T. McGovern, of Cloverport, attended the funeral. This was Mrs. Muldoon's home as a young girl and during the first years of her married life. She leaves a host of friends who mourn their loss.

The October Bargain Rush.

Hundreds of people in this vicinity are subscribing to the Evansville Courier at the bargain rates, thus saving a precious dollar. While the regular price of The Courier daily by mail, one year, is $5.00, the October bargain rate is $4.00 and our people have the opportunity to secure one of the best and first of daily newspapers at a very reasonable price.

Subscriptions may be sent to The Courier direct or handed in at this office or to the postmaster.

This Man Wants Dogs Killed Off

A man writes in to Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper, and says:

"In this time of war, when the world is short of food, it would be a matter of economy to reduce the dog population to a minimum. The towns, especially, are very much over populated with dogs, and it is those dogs that are the worst menace to the sheep industry.

If they cannot find sheep to chase they usually can find hens' nests to break up or some other mischief to get into.

"There is a great deal of strong talk about stopping the breeder on account of the scarcity of grain. Why should it not be well to make it a matter of patriotism to reduce the dog population to a minimum for the sake of economy and as a war measure? Why not show our devotion to our country by giving up a few million worthless dogs and turning the food they consume to a better purpose and also give our farmers a chance to grow more wool and mutton?"

Bible Has Lots Of Economies

A writer says in the November American Magazine:

There is a vast deal of sound economics in the New Testament. Be selfish nobly. 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' When Christ said that, he laid it down as an everlasting truth that man must love himself in order to achieve anything at all in this world and that the attempt to love another as he does himself is to struggle toward an ideal.

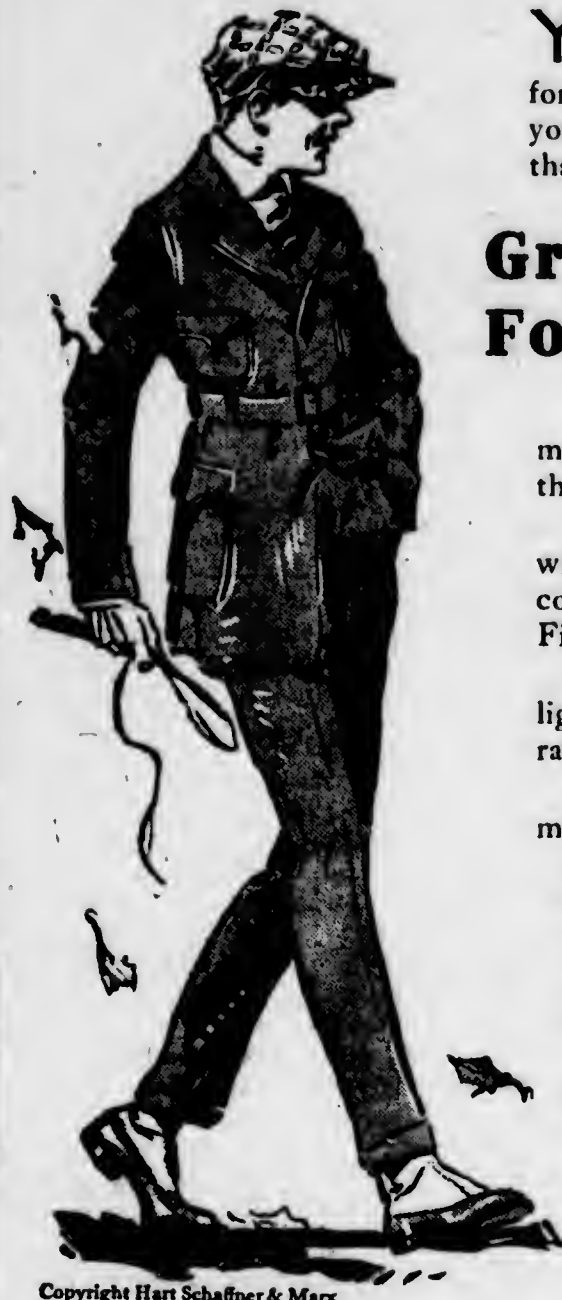

"Moreover, when he told the rich young man to give all he had to the poor, he issued the command, not because he despised money and the things money symbolized, but because he saw that this particular young man was a waster, one who 'couldn't' stand prosperity, and that the use he made of his money harmed him instead of helping him. There were 'quarter horses' two thousand years ago, just as there are 'quarter horses' today.

Cabinet Officers Sons Fight.

Washington, Oct. 7.—American parents have set a patriotic example by members of the Cabinet, nine of whose sons have entered war service.

Josephus Daniels, Jr., son of the Secretary of the Navy, is a private in the first to fight branch of the navy—the United States Marine Corps.

Two of the sons of the Secretary of the Treasury are preparing to do their bit. William G. McAdoo, Jr. is training in the aviation section of the Naval Reserve. Robert H. has enlisted in the Great Preparations For The Young Men

Our collection of fall styles for young men is usually complete; here are some of the newest things.

Sport suits by Hart Schaffner & Marx with all-round belt to buckle, in the newest colors and weaves. The famous Varsity Fifty Five suits.

Trench coats in the military designs; light weight models for cool days or for rainy days.

Soft hats in the latest colorings and models.

Shirts in a variety of striking patterns; fall colorings.

Something different in neckwear and hosiery, besides a host of other interesting things.

Secretary Lane's son, Franklin J. Jr., probably will accompany the first large contingent of American aviators to go abroad. He is now a First Lieutenant in the Signal Corps.

David Franklin Houston, Jr., son of the Secretary of Agriculture, and Humphrey F. Redfield, son of the Secretary of Commerce, are cadets in the navy.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor surpasses the other Cabinet members in his contribution. He has one son, William B. Jr., in an officers' training camp; another, Joseph B., in the National Army as Second Lieutenant, and a third, James H., in the Field Artillery with the rank of corporal.

October Days are Fleeting

The leaves are falling and the days are going, and soon the opportunity to subscribe for the Evansville Courier at the annual bargain rate will be gone.

Thousands of subscriptions to The Courier have been taken, as its great interest and importance to this section in bringing the news of the world and the war first are generally recognized.

The regular prices of The Courier are $5.00 per year for this daily and $7.50 per year for daily and Sunday, but this month, the October bargain month, the prices are $4.00 and $6.00.

Only once a year is the chance to secure subscriptions at the reduced rates given. We advise our readers to take advantage of the opportunity

The truest test of civilization is not the census; nor the size of the cities; nor the crops—but the kind of men the country turns out.—Emerson.

"GOSPEL OF THE CLEAN PLATE."

We heard of a dinner party which was given not long ago and from all accounts they had a menu that was far from being "Hooverized." To have a menu consisting of two kinds of meat, four or five different vegetables, a salad and desert, besides large dishes of pickles and preserves, would at any time be a super abundance, and now when the majority of us are doing all we can to conserve the food it looks as if we might call such a menu as the above a "slacker's menu."

Every day the officials of the Federal Food Administration tell us that "food will win the war" and they are exploring us to do on as few of the staple foods as possible so that we might share it with our Allies who are actually in need of many of the staples.

During this month a house to house canvass is being made in every home in America by committees representing the Federal Food Administration Bureau who are getting the householders to sign the Hoover pledge cards whereby they promise to do all they can to conserve the food supply and help win the war.

Beginning October 28, to Nov. 4, representatives of the bureau who have been appointed by Miss Elizabeth Skillman, chairman of Breckenridge county, are going to visit every home in the county asking you to sign the Hoover pledge card. Perhaps there will be some who will look upon this as a light matter, thinking it will not amount to much, but indeed it is a most important matter, and we hope that every family in Breckenridge will gladly sign the Hoover pledge, and will not only preach the "Gospel of the Clean Plate," but they will practice it as well and thus hasten the victory.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

We call your attention to the important announcement on the front page of this week's issue of the Breckenridge News of Judge J. W. Henson, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Judge Henson, whose home is in Henderson, Ky., was in our city Saturday and we had the pleasure of meeting him personally. We have often heard it said "that the first impression is always the most lasting whether it be good or bad" so our first impression of the Judge was truly a good one. He bore the traits of a gentleman. One could tell from the first meeting that he was a man of culture, refinement, well educated and above all a Christian man. He is not at all egotistical but on the contrary he is reserved and from all appearances we believe he is a man of high ideals and of strong determination.

Judge Henson was born and reared on the farm. He is a self-made man, in other words he has attained purely by his own merits the position that he holds now, being a member of one of the most reliable law firms in the State, that of Henson and Taylor.

A man who possesses the qualities such as these which are attributed to Judge Henson, is the character of the man whom we believe should hold the important offices in the State. We are for a greater and better Kentucky and to have it we must have superb men at the head of affairs, therefore believing Judge Henson to be a man of superior qualities, we would say to the voters of the Fourth District that they will make no mistake in supporting him.

COMMUNITY FARMING.

Out in the McQuady neighborhood the farmers have organized a union of 125 members in order to sell their products at a reasonable profit and to buy what they need from those who offer the best in duce ments. The merchants of Breckenridge county should wake up and form the acquaintance of these community farmers and make them attractive prices on their goods. If the merchants will co-operate with them there is no need for a dollar leaving the county and falling into the hands of some foreign concern, thereby taking thousands of dollars out of the county every year.

The organization is composed of some of the best men in the county, and their aim is to build up their community both socially and financially. They buy in large quantities and pay the cash for what they get, and the wide-awake merchant who advertises attractive prices will get their trade.

The army surgeons say that more defective boys come from the rural schools than from the city schools. Such a statement as this is not surprising. In the first place rural schools are not as well equipped with comfortable desks as city schools, and another thing fresh air which is very essential to ones health, particularly young people, is sadly lacking both in country schools, churches and ver-often the homes. When we have too much of a good thing we are not able to appreciate it, but every school teacher, not only in the county but in town, should realize the extreme value of fresh air and keep the school rooms well ventilated. It is the best way to prevent contagious diseases and colds.

While the Y. M. C. A. is doing a noble work for the soldier boys the Y. W. C. A. is doing equally as much for the women who are at the front and working in the training camps. The sum of $1,000,000 is being raised for the Y. W. C. A. war work. Part of this will be used in erecting homes for the Red Cross nurses in foreign lands. Another part will be used for erecting hostess houses in cities near the training camps where soldiers can go in and "feel perfectly at home." The girls who are employed in the training camps as stenographers and waitresses will be cared for in Y. W. C. A. homes.

Muriel Morrison, one of our home boys who is "no-telling-where" in France, writes back that he certainly enjoyed reading the Breckenridge News, and there is nothing he wanted in the whole United States of America but some Bull Durham tobacco. His father sent him a box last week containing 72 sacks of Bull Durham with one of his old pipes which he had left at home and a couple of late copies of the Breckenridge News. We imagine Muriel will have a "feast" when he gets that box from home.

When you are storing your fruits for the winter don't forget about the soldier boys who have gone from here. Maybe the Red Cross Society will ask you for a donation for the Christmas box.

There is good in all things, and the best thing we can see in the excess postage rate is that maybe the mail order houses will not get as much of the trade which rightfully belongs at home.

Please observe that the campaign to secure food saving pledges has been postponed one week later so that it may not interfere with the sale of the Liberty Bonds.

The Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has a fund for taking care of the army horses.

It used to be "Fletcherize" now it is "Hooverize."

FARM AND STOCK.

W. L. Harrel has sold his farm of 360 acres, near Kira, to William, Ernest and Elmer P. Paine, of Tar Fork, for $12,000. Mr. Harrel is in the market for a good small farm of about 150 acres.

W. R. Moorman, Jr., was at Danville last week and bought 27 head of Short Horn cattle from Baughman & Cobb.

There are only three crops of Burley in the McQuady neighborhood. They belong to G. L. Squires, 4,000; McGary Bros., 10,000; Jolly Bros., 20,000. Mr. Squires turned down an offer of $32.50 for his crop.

"Uncle" Julius Dutschke has a field of wheat coming up nicely.

B. B. French, as sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to smile on his friends as they pass on the train.

B. F. DeJarnette & Co., have 20,000 pounds of Prior, the best they have ever raised.

The United States Department of Agriculture in its October report forecasts the corn crop of this State at 128,000,000 bushels, an increase of 2,000,000 bushels over a month ago, and a new high record. The forecast for tobacco is 431,000,000 pounds. Wheat 8,916,000 bushels. Irish potatoes 6,400,000 bushels. Sweet potatoes 1,210,000 bushels. Hay 1,194,000 tons. Apples 2,800,000 barrels. Peaches 1,034,000 bushels. Tobacco shows a decrease of 4,600,000 pounds as compared with the 1916 crop. Corn an increase of 2,800,000 over 1916. Irish potatoes an increase over 1916 of 2,284,000 bushels, and sweet potatoes an increase of 310,000 bushels. Hay decreased 720,000 tons.

The farmers around McQuady will sow around 2,000 acres to wheat. The list of names and acres are: Thomas Sheeran 15, Sam Beavin 10, H. J. B. and 50, L. H. Taul 35, Chas. Miller 25, Hugh Havercraft 50, John and Luther Miller 45, Tom Frank and Burn McGary 25, Ralph Wheatley 20, Dan O'Connell 20, F. C. Ruppert 35, Jas. P. Keenan 20, Sam Jackson 50, G. L. Squires 35, Wm. Newby 15, G. A. Wright 150, Nelson and J. R. Jolly 125, J. M. Lyons 61, John Frank 10, Tom Bland 10, T. J. Watson 10, Ben and Burn DeJarnette 100, Payne Bros. 60, A. P. King 10, H. L. Payne 20, Gabe Shrewsbury 20, Len Beavin 5, C. M. Beavin & Bro. 20, C. and J. Askin 20, Daniel A. King 10, Wm. Lyons 50, W. P. Coomes 8, John Bryant 10, Ambrose Mudd 20, Dennis Sheeran 40, Carl Sheeran 15, Russell Keenan 25, J. B. Bates 15, Beavin & Knue 50, J. T. Higdon 50, L. N. Rhodes 150, John Monarch 125, J. V. Hinton 60, Paul Shrewsbury 20, J. S. Mattingly 20. These farmers are all members of the McQuady Farmers Union and are all pulling together for a big wheat yield and to help Uncle Sam.

Paul Wilson shipped two loads of cattle and hogs Monday valued at $3,500.

We saw a woman behind a disc harrow Monday preparing wheat ground. You would be surprised to know of the number of women doing outdoor farm work in this county.

Stay On the Farm.

Mr. Jno. D. Babbage, Editor Breckenridge News, Cloverport, Ky.,

Dear Sir: You will find enclosed a money order for $1.50 for another year's subscription to your paper. It would be impossible for me to do without the good paper as it is just like meeting some friend from Breckenridge county.

It is a great pleasure to get by the fire-side at night and read the paper and see how well the boys are selling their tobacco now and when I last sold mine in good old Breckenridge for the sum of 6c a pound which was lots better tobacco than they are selling for 17c to 20c now. I am glad to see it as it is some inducement to get the boys to stay on the farm as there is lots better chances there than in the city.

Wishing success to you and your paper, I beg to remain yours truly,

J. L. Slaton, 717 Vermont Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

The invited guests were: Miss Ray Lewis Heyser, Miss Edith Burn, Miss Esther Payne, Miss Lora Carson, Miss Cleona Weatherholt Messrs. Paul Lewis and Wilbur Chapin.

Parcel Post Sale

One of the social events of the fall season will be the Parcel Post sale given Thursday evening Oct. 18 in the Siroons Building by the Wednesday club. The proceeds of the sale will be added to the local Red Cross Society's fund.

The Club members who are enthusiastic workers for the Red Cross are exceedingly anxious to have a large crowd. All of the necessary expenses will be borne by them so that the profits will be clear. The room where the sale will take place is to be attractively decorated in autumn flowers and foliage with the nation's colors predominating.

In the afternoon before the sale, ice cream cones will be sold to the school children and in the evening the sale is to be auctioned off by Postmaster Lightfoot after which sandwiches, coffee, home made candy, and ice cream will be sold.

Mrs. David B. Phelps is entertaining the Wednesday Club this week.

Miss Esther Payne will entertain the Friday Club.

Mr. Wilbur Chapin was host to a picture show party Friday evening in honor of Mr. Paul Lewis. In the party were: Miss Esther Payne, Miss Ray Heyser, Miss Cleona Weatherholt, Mr. Lewis and Mr. Chapin.

On Saturday evening the members of the Friday Club and the visitors in the city were given a fudge party at the home of Miss Mildred Babbage by the following young men: Messrs. Vivan Pierce, M. M. Denton, Lefe Behen, Paul Lewis, Wilbur Chapin, Andrew Ashby and Randall Weatherholt. The invited guest included: Misses Lenora McGavock, Mary McGavock, Esther Payne, Claudia Pate, Jeannette Burn, Ray Heyser, Eloise Nolte, Miss Elizabeth Skillman, Morganfield and Miss Carrie May Bonner, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Britton.

Hudson-Kinchloe

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hudson announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jessie Logan Hudson to Mr. Morris Buckner Kinchloe October eleventh, nineteen hundred seventeen. Popular Bluff, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinchloe will be at home after Oct. 14, Boulder, Colo.

The Ladies Reading Club will meet with Mrs. Samuel Conrad Thursday afternoon.

Gibson-Weatherholt

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Mary Gibson and Mr. Frank Weatherholt. The wedding took place, in Owensboro, Ky., Saturday, Oct. 13, 1917.

The bride is the pretty and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Gibson, Prospect, Ky., who formerly lived here and are well known in Breckenridge county. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Weatherholt of this city. He is a telegraph operator and has been working in the Western states for the last two years.

The happy young couple were sweethearts during their school days. They will make their home in California.

BIGGS-LUDLAM

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Irvington, Oct. 13, 1917. (Special)—One of the prettiest weddings of the fall was that of Miss Essie Judelle Biggs and Mr. Richard Hampden Ludlam, Richmond, Va., which was solemnized Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Biggs. Rev. Philip H. Ryan pastor of the Methodist church performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The house was artistically decorated in autumn leaves, dahlias and cosmos. The ceremony took place in the living room. The impromptu altar was encircled in front of a bay window which was banked with autumn leaves and fall berries and the house was lighted with pink candles. Mrs. J. T. Johnson and Miss Guedry Bramlette had charge of the music. The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin during the ceremony "Song to the Evening Star" by Tanhauser was softly rendered. During the recessional Mendelssohn's wedding march was played.

The bride who entered with her brother, Mr. William Biggs by whom she was given in marriage was attired in a traveling suit of blue chiffon broadcloth with this she wore a close fitting hat of French velvet. She wore a corsage of Ophelia Roses and Valley Lil-

The Girl Who Was a Soldier Boy

How I Went "Over There" With Pershing's Division

By HAZEL CARTER

Mrs. Hazel Carter of Douglas, Ariz., is a young woman, twenty-two, whose young husband, Corporal John J. Carter of the United States Army, was ordered to France with the Pershing expedition. Determined to accompany him, she obtained a soldier's uniform and felt in as a private on his departure. She was five days at sea on the transport before she was discovered and was returned home against her wishes.

CHAPTER III.

"Spotted" by a Bluejacket.

Of course we ran at night with all our portholes masked, and no smoking was permitted either on deck or below after dark. If the guard caught a soldier smoking a "rag" he tagged him and forced him to do guard duty until he in turn caught another at it. The system worked pretty well. The boys could smoke all they wanted to on deck in the daytime. After the lights were out our sleeping quarters were absolutely dark, and there was a severe penalty for lighting even a match. The portholes were open to keep the men from suffocating.

Before dark I carefully located my husband's bunk since I knew I would have to travel by dead reckoning, and I couldn't afford to stumble over something, because that would get Smithers and my husband in bad and lead to my discovery. Before going to bed I took off my heavy shoes and carefully hid them. I was going to make the trip in my stocking feet.

Shortly after lights out I felt a gentle push on my arm, and Smithers whispered: "All right, kiddie. Go up forward." I sneaked out of the bunk and reached my husband's berth without mishap. He was glad to see me, and for awhile we forgot the ship and the war and the dangers and were ourselves. But, soldier-like, he suddenly came down to cases.

"I've got to report you, kiddie," he said. "You can't go on or you will get us all in bad." I pleaded with him. He insisted that he owed it to his country and his uniform to report me.

"Forget you have seen me," I urged, "and let me go along. I will join the Red Cross as soon as I get ashore in France."

Alarm Interrupts Talk. He finally agreed he would not report me until just before we arrived, if I got away with it that long, but he insisted he must do it then. However, we agreed to see each other the next night to have another talk, and I thought, with the whole Atlantic between us and France, I could persuade him in the meantime. Just as I was getting ready to go back the submarine alarm sounded which broke all the boys out of their bunks, seasick as most of them were.

I ran back to my place just in time to hear the rookie quartered over me arguing with the sergeant. "Get up out of there!" shouted the "son com." "That's the U boat alarm."

"I don't care whether we sink or not," answered the poor boy. "I hope she does. Don't bother me." The sergeant roared out the rookie without much ceremony, and I followed along to a place assigned to me on a life raft, putting on my life belt as I went. All the men had orders to don their life preservers first and then go in an orderly manner to their places. Already there had been two or three drills in the daytime, and the disciplined man soon catches on.

When I reached the deck there was no confusion and no excitement in the pitch black darkness. The men were proceeding quietly to their places, fastening on their life belts, although most of them had been awakened out of snoring sleep, and I was proud of the behavior of the soldiers Uncle Sam was sending to the trenches.

All our boys who are going to France obey instructions as well as that shipboard drill there will be no excuse for the loss of a life. It all moved like clockwork. No one lost his head. My seasick rookie, however, climbed into the wrong boat and got a call from the corporal.

slumber. A few began to think they would miss one of the sights of the trip if they didn't meet a Dutchman and looked forward hopefully to the prospect.

Disappointed Through Failure to See U Boats.

However, these optimists were doomed to disappointment, for our ship did not see a "German porpoise" the whole voyage, nor did we hear a gun fired. Since returning to the United States I have heard of the attack on some of the ships of the transport fleet, but it was not on the part of it we were with. It would have been impossible for us to have been attacked and not to have known of it. As I say, lots of the boys were disappointed because they could not write home to the folks about the narrow escape from the subs, and the doughboys are great letter writers. Perhaps some of them did, anyway, as to let those at home know they weren't missing anything.

By this time I felt almost like a soldier and had learned to smoke "tailor made" cigarettes, although I had tried it only once before this trip as an experiment when I was at school and had abandoned it after a couple of puffs. In the privacy of my bunk I devoted a whole lot of time to trying to roll them with as much carelessness and real economy of tobacco as are shown by the U. S. soldier. I had acquired the "makin'" and spent hours at the task.

About the third or fourth day out I felt I was pretty proficient and got out my brown papers and tobacco on deck and went to it. Near me was a sailor off one of our biggest battleships who was in the gun crew assigned to defend the transport from attack. He was off duty, and I saw him watching me closely as I rolled the pill. Finally he sidled up.

"Say," he asked, "you're a Jane, ain't you?"

"What are you doin'—kiddin' me?" I asked him.

"I guess you're kiddin' me," he answered. "I pegged you by the way you wrap up one of those pills. No recruit is so raw he can't roll one better than that. They wouldn't let him in the army if he couldn't. But what you're doing on this joy ride is none of my business, sis. Don't be afraid I'll tip you off. I'm in the navy, and what the army does ain't my affair so long as we get you over there all O. K."

I didn't admit I was a girl, but he knew. He was a nice boy, who had come from Iowa originally, and I got real well acquainted with him later. He was one of the few people on the transport on the way back, a sad and lonesome trip for me, and we became quite chummy. I saw him only the other night here in Hoboken.

"Well," he remarked, "it's hard luck they got you. The other two girls aboard could roll them better than you and slipped through all right."

"More power to them if they did," I answered. "I hope they made it."

Of course there were no more girls on board. He was trying to kid me and get my goat.

Life on Shipboard.

I was pretty happy and contented for the next couple of days, and I guess I became too sure of myself. Most of the boys were getting over their seasickness by this time, and the inevitable crap game that follows the army was in progress. You could hear the men calling for "Little Joe" and "Jimmy Hicks" after they got out the "hot and colds," and they made plenty of noise.

The officers were not very strict aboard ship and let the crap game run with all the noise necessary to the successful playing of this national pastime. One of the boys had been in particularly hard luck and had only a thin dime left to put up for a future margin when he copped a big pot. Just then the submarine alarm sounded. We knew we were near the danger zone.

"Hurry up!" shouted one of the players as we all broke away from our places. The winner calmly collected the pot.

"They may shoot me, and I will tell the world so," he announced, "before I will leave this 'sugar' for a blooming Dutchman to put a torpedo into. That would be just my luck. If it ever rains soup I will be caught with a fork."

It was another drill alarm, so the captain returned to the game only to be "taken" for his roll.

"It would have been better for me if we had been torpedoed," he said after he had been cleaned.

And don't think the doughboy is a piker. Many a time I've seen $1,000 in a single pot.

Besides craps, the men sang and played Black Jack, a favorite card game of campaigners and one in which they win and lose big. It wasn't long before a few of them had all the money. The youngsters wrote letters until I thought some of them would never be able to handle a gun on account of writer's cramp. One young fellow didn't slight a girl in the state of Texas, and I suppose he told each she was the only one. He ought to get lots of mail "over there."

Because of the breaks in the sleep on account of submarine drills and for other reasons I am ordered not to discuss some of the boys' sleep in the daytime a good deal. There were not many duties aboard ship, and the officers let all hands take it as easy as they could. They knew there would be plenty to do in France.

That is why the American soldier is fighting for his captain and not to make the world safe for democracy. He knows his captain as the fellow who looks out for him. I speak of the regular, the neat, soldierly looking fellow you can always tell from a guardsman, when I say this. And I don't mean that as a reflection. Soldiering is the regular's business.

In the daytime a little of the husband, but with the aid of cupid Private Smithers I sneaked up to his berth often at night. He still insisted he would report me. The old timers who knew me covered me up, and all the men were very decent. Whenever an officer came along they would find an excuse to gather around me, and they did very little swearing. If a fellow forgot and cut loose he got a call from somebody. The loyalty of these boys I had known on the border pleased me very much and flattered me a little, I guess.

My headquarters were the kitchen, where I was rated as one of the cooks and did my share. Here they called me "Silent Joe" because I talked so little—afraid my voice would betray me. Glad that they gave me this reputation. I was ready to live up to it.

Fools Husband.

One day I was folding up my blanket when I saw my husband coming down between the tiers of bunks.

"What are you doing there, rookie?" he demanded. "Don't you know there is a drill on deck?"

My back had been half turned toward him. I swung around and tore off my hat. My hair had been clipped short but he recognized me and laughed. The joke was on him.

"You fooled me, kiddie," he said. "You'd better go up to drill."

But the best I could do was to help myself to a good cry on his chest. There was no one who could see us. He was gentle with me as always, and I was happy. I had needed that cry a long time. I think he was a little proud, too, to know his wife would risk so much and follow him so far just to be near him. I enjoyed that moment. I didn't care if all the officers on board saw me, but none did.

It was easy for me to go through the simple drills on shipboard, for I was familiar enough with the army to show up a lot of the rookies at it. Some of the men who did not know I was aboard were curious about my shaving.

"When do you get out your razor?" a youngster asked me one day.

"I don't have to use it except once a week," I answered. "I'm a kid yet. You go to it every day to look manly."

Once I did try to shave to play my part. Of course there were always the soldier songs, and we had quite a collection of musical instruments aboard, manned by amateurs. One doughboy who had recently returned from service in Hawaii had brought a ukulele along, and he went big for the boys liked those dreamy tunes.

It is a strange thing about a soldier that he does not sing the stuff written for him, but prefers the tear jerkers and sentimental ballads. The soldier songs in France will be about back home and not about beating the boches. Yet these boys were going to the trenches and that bell with a smile and a song. If any reformer kicks on that crap game he ought to go himself. The men are gambling their lives. Why not their money?

The Rookie Who Talked Too Much.

Most of the soldiers knew and had served with and seen General Pershing. He sees more of the doughboys than most major generals and gets in closer contact with his men. Yet they talked little of him except to show they had faith in him. He seemed to be a sort of distant person who spent his time in some indefinite place. The captain is the soldier's friend.

There was much speculation as to what they would do when they reached France, and all were eager to get into action. They wanted to try it anyway. "We may be fed up on it a year from now," declared one fellow who had been watchfully waiting several months in Mexico, "but I hope we get some action soon."

I was beginning to think I would see the trenches myself and half hoped so. I knew I wouldn't be scared, and I felt I was part of the expedition by this time. Nothing would have suited me better than to have climbed into a ditch beside Corporal John Carter, U. S. A. I had caught the spirit of the crowd and had half got my husband to consent to let me go along as far as I could make it. I was happy.

Then one morning without any warning a talkative rookie, who had been seasick, but was now better and fresh, said:

"Did you hear there is a woman aboard?"

"You don't say?" I answered. "Where the devil is she?"

"I don't know. I can't make her," he answered. "I've been looking everybody over. All the boys on the ship are talking about it."

"Some men would make better old maids than women," I replied and turned on my heel and walked away. There was a lump in my throat. The old timers knew enough to keep their mouths shut, but these rookies were natural gossipers. The officers would tear sure and begin a search. Had I done all this way to France?

Cost of Growing Wheat.

Now that the Government has fixed the price of wheat, both for the 1917 and 1918 crops, the question of actual cost of production becomes more interesting than ever. What is the average cost of producing an acre of wheat? Is a price of approximately $2 a bushel too much? Let us see. A few years ago the cost of wheat was figured at from $10.50 to $12.50 an acre, with a few estimates running above or below these figures. That costs have greatly increased since the beginning of the European war all must admit.

In round numbers the cost of an acre of wheat averaging 15 bushels is now $20, with the chances for still greater cost in 1918.

Here are the figures showing acre cost of wheat in a leading winter wheat State: Man labor 12.8 hours at 15 cents an hour, $1.92; horse labor for 27.3 hours at 11 1/2 cents an hour, $3.14; interest at 6 percent on $75 land, $4.50; taxes, 25 cents; upkeep 30 cents; feed (1 1/2 bushels) at $2.25, $3.37; use of machinery, 80 cents; 1/2 pounds of twine at 17 cents, 8.6 cents; threshing machine hire at 5 cents, 95 cents; coal 15 cents; marketing, 30 cents; fertilizer, $4.00; Total $20.24.

That these figures are conservative appears upon the closest and most critical study. For instance, the first item, that of man labor, is certainly within reason. We very much doubt if farm labor can be had at 15 cents an hour. The same conservatism applies throughout, whether the item be cost of twine, threshing bill, or taxes on land. Some may question the wisdom of figuring in fertilizer cost, as not all farmers use commercial fertilizers for wheat. This is quite true, but all wheat takes plant food from the soil.

A 15 bushel crop of wheat removes, in the grain alone, 17 1/2 pounds of nitrogen, 25 pounds of phosphorus, and 4 pounds of potassium. Buy these ingredients in the form of commercial fertilizer and see how much you will have left out of $4.

So with a 15 bushel crop next year, and with a price of $2 a bushel, the wheat grower may realize $30.75 an acre more than his wheat cost him, provided he has no bad luck. On a 40 acre crop this is $1,230. This is less than the price of a good team. Since you'll not too much when we remember that the wheat grower takes his time and his tail and his crop to the market, we are killing—Farm an' Breeder.

Largest Store House in World.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Five months since work was started, an immense warehouse, said to be the largest storage structure in the world, stands practically completed at the New York navy yard. The Navy Department tonight made public details of its construction. It is seven stories high, 180 feet wide and 360 feet long. There are more than 700,000 square feet of floor space, approximately sixteen acres.

The warehouse is only one detail of a building programme involving more than $100,000,000 and is a good example of the type at which this construction work is being put through. Funds for this building were provided March 29. Plans were prepared by Civil Engineer Leonard M. Cox, U. S. A., and the work was undertaken by the Tuner Construction Company, New York on May 2. Heavy reinforced concrete with oak plank and steel walls has been used. It is being glazed with steel and will cost with all about $1,200,000.

Similar storage warehouses are being built out to the navy at other

TROOPS IN FRANCE ARE LEARNING DISCIPLINE OF FOREIGN ARMIES

Officers Are Inclined to Follow Stiffneck British System, But French Democracy Is Invading Ranks—Our New Crop of Reserve Officers Are Greater Sticklers for Form Than Most West Pointers.

By HEYWOOD BROWN.
(Accredited to the Pershing Army in France by the New York Tribune and Syndicate.)

American Expeditionary Army.—“The most important factor in the American army will be discipline,” said an officer shortly after the troops came out to the training camps. “If it has good discipline it will be a good army; if it has bad discipline, it will be a bad army. I can watch a regiment stand at attention and tell you whether or not it can fight effectively.”

The question remains as to what sort of discipline the American army will have. Some observers say that there are two kinds of good discipline—French discipline and English discipline. Under the French system there are let-down periods. Off duty an officer may fraternize with enlisted men to an extent which would scandalize the English army. This is due, in part, to the fact that the armies are composed differently. The English army is much more stratified than the French. It has, as the American army had before the war, a distinct officers’ class. An Englishman of certain education receives a commission as a matter of course. Under the volunteer system, which prevailed at the beginning of the war, the English volunteer of the upper or upper middle class did not offer his services until he was prepared to fulfill the duties of an officer. The French draft, on the other hand, thrust many a distinguished citizen into the ranks. A sergeant in the instruction division here was one of the most popular playwrights in France before the war, and the other day a grimy little man, climbed from a coal cart to tell me, in perfect English that he had been an assistant professor of Romance languages in one of the great American universities—Cornell, I think—before the call came.

Of course, when the word English discipline is used it falls short of the British army. Australian discipline and English discipline are vastly different. There is a popular story about an Anzac colonel in Egypt who drew up his men and told them:

“An English general is coming here today to inspect the regiment, and remember, d— you, don’t call me ‘Bill’ until he goes.”

Canadians Well Disciplined.
An instructor at a British training camp told me that the Canadians were now among the best disciplined troops in the army, but that the Australians still gave occasional trouble. “Every now and then,” he said, “a couple of them will sneak down to the woods and camp out alone for a couple of days.”

British officers will tell you that, although the Australians fight well, their losses are much higher than they would be with better discipline. If there is such a possibility as an absolutely democratic army, it has been much impaired by the poor work of the Russian republicans army. The scheme of submitting each plan of attack to the soldiers before it is ordered cannot be said to have proved effective.

The question of discipline in the American army is complicated by many factors. Before the war there was a gulf between officers and men fully as wide as that in the English army. It was not due to lack of democracy. It was a gulf founded on fundamental differences of character and education. On one hand, there was the officer class, carefully selected and carefully trained, and on the other hand, the enlisted men, haphazardly accepted from the floating population. Professional armies the world over are recruited largely from the industrially inefficient during times of peace.

An American regular of no great promise was hawailing the fact that an officer had hopped him because he executed a command imperfectly. “Well,” his companion answered, “wouldn’t the farmer hawl you out if he told you to feed the horses and you didn’t give them as much as he told you?” It was the typical point of view of the old type of professional soldier. He was drawn from the “bawled out” class and he could be governed only by “bawl out” methods.

Things are largely changed now. More than half the American army in France is made up of men who joined after the declaration of war. They were not jobless or inefficient. Multitudes of reasons sent them into the ranks. A few wanted to make the world safe for democracy. Many more desired adventure, an ocean voyage and a trip to Paris and perhaps Berlin.

“I was marching my men along the other day,” said a young captain, “when I heard a private give the cheer of the University of Nebraska. I ran up to him and said: ‘You didn’t do that very well. I’m a Nebraska man myself. Let’s do it together.’”

All Sorts of Officers.

There are then men drawn from many classes in the army and there will be more. Already there are all sorts of officers. There is the regular from West Point, the occasional regular from civil life, the officer who came through the Fort Leavenworth training school, the reserve officers and a number of former “non-coms” recently elevated to commissions. The greatest sticklers for discipline are the reserve officers.

“I was talking to a soldier in the street,” said an old West Pointer, “and he was telling me he had too much money to spend. ‘I can’t see half of it,’ he said, ‘and I waste it on things I don’t want. Look at the bunch of cigars I bought. Take a handful.’ I took three, but I was mighty sorry afterwards, because I had with me a young fellow, just commissioned second lieutenant, and he was almost shocked to death that I should take cigars from a soldier.”

The officers who rose from non-coms are also somewhat stiff and formal in the exercise of their new-found honors. All have been transferred from their regular regiments, so that they shall not be associated with the enlisted men they knew before they held commissions. Some officers believe in leading their men, while others in driving them, while still a third class combine the two methods. One of the best young officers I have seen in the army is absolutely informal with his men at times. He comes to their concerts and hands cigars to the quartette and consults with them as to what song they shall sing.

“Captain, do you like ‘Cathleen’?” the big soldier who sang tenor would ask, and the captain would answer: “Does it go like this?” humming a bar, and then add: “Yea, that’s a good one; let’s have it.” He could be stern enough upon occasion, and he had the best of the army, but liked his men to know the reasons for things. He was fond of letting them get his point of view about things. Thus, when he found some soldiers drinking too much, soon after their landing, he called a conference and told them that it had to stop.

If the Whole Army Drank.

“Some of you men are spending all your money on booze,” he said, “and getting stinko, pinko, sloppy drunk. It won’t do. A few old privates get drunk, but don’t copy them. It’s just because of that they’re old privates. I’m going to choose my non-coms from you, but not the men who drink. You’ve drunk yourselves out of a commission, sergeant. I was going to recommend you, but how can I do it now? Just look at the way I see it. If I took my pny in a lump I could buy every saloon in the town and stay drunk for two years. (‘I had to exaggerate a little,’ he confessed when he told the story to me afterward). What do you suppose would happen then? Suppose the majors and the colonels and the generals and the whole bunch got drunk, what would happen to the army? Don’t forget that this is your army as much as it is mine. That’s all today.”

The chief and most noble member of the English school of discipline is General Pershing. He pats the drive in the army. His inspections are masterpieces of thoroughness and he is exceedingly stern with all inefficients, whether they are officers or soldiers. Slouchy bearing annoys him fearfully and he takes an active and penetrating interest in shoes, buttons and bright metal. He is exceedingly chary of praise. Probably nobody in the army will ever call him Papa Pershing, but for all that he is a Roman father to his men.

Bulgaria Will Hold Here—Maybe.
Berlin.—The reichstag resolution demanding peace without annexations and indemnities is bitterly resented in Bulgaria and threatens to lead to a breach between that country and the central powers.

“No matter what Germany and Austria-Hungary may do, the Bulgarians are going to keep all territories conquered by them,” says the Sofia correspondent of the Lokalanzeiger.

“I have interviewed a number of the leading statesmen and politicians and found them all extremely indignant over the action of the reichstag. They regard the peace resolution as a breach of faith and insist that the compact made when their country entered the war be kept.

“Without exception, they declared that Bulgaria was solemnly promised all Serbian districts inhabited by Bulgarians, together with the Dobruja, and that their armies will not evacuate these territories at a command from Berlin and Vienna. Premier Radoslavoff has expressed himself in a similar manner.”

Meatless Days on Dinners.

Portland, Ore.—Meatless meals on Mondays and Fridays are now served on the dining cars of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroad, a part of the Hill system. In addition, chefs have been cautioned to waste as little food as possible. Passengers are handed small suggestion cards indicating ways by which waste may be cut down. All this comes as the result of an appeal from the food administration at Washington, the railroad officials announce.

CIVIC BODIES AND PRESS FAVOR THE AMENDMENT

There is wide spread interest throughout the state in the constitutional amendment permitting the purchase of one telephone company by another, which was adopted by the last Legislature, and which will be voted upon at the coming November election. Chambers of Commerce and civic bodies in a large number of communities have adopted resolutions endorsing the amendment and pledging their efforts towards its passage. Newspapers throughout the state are also endorsing the amendment and are urging the importance of a favorable vote by the people.

The amendment to the constitution, which is made a part of Section 201, is as follows:

“Provided, however, that telephone companies may acquire by purchase or lease, or otherwise, and operate, parallel or competing exchanges, lines and structures, and the property of other telephone companies, if the railroad commission or such other state commission as may have jurisdiction over such matters shall first consent thereto, and if, further, each municipality wherein such property or any part thereof is located shall also first consent thereto as to the property within its limits, but under any such acquisition and operation toll line connections with the property so acquired shall be continued and maintained under an agreement between the purchasing company and the toll line companies then furnishing such service, and in the event they are unable to agree as to the terms of such an agreement the railroad commission or such other State commission as may have jurisdiction over such matters, shall fix the term of such agreement.”

Chambers of Commerce which have passed resolutions favoring the amendment are those at Bowling Green, Frankfort, Lexington, Shelbyville, Henderson, Middlesboro, State Chamber of Commerce of Louisville, and others. Quite a number of newspapers have endorsed the amendment editorially, both at points where there are two telephone systems and in cities where there is only one system.

The Anderson News, Lawrenceburg, Ky., says:

“Two telephone lines in any community, both contending for supremacy, are a perfect nuisance. Two telephones in a private residence are too expensive to maintain; two telephones in a business house are an expensive necessity; therefore the General Assembly has come to the rescue of the people if they will accept its assistance and go to the polls in November and cast their vote for this amendment.”

The Danville, Ky., Messenger says:

“It is hoped that the people will remember and vote for this amendment, as it is the only way in which the public in some localities will ever have decent service.”

The Interior Journal, Stanford, Ky., says:

“The Interior Journal favors the amendment and will vote for it. One system answers the demand and two are as annoying as they are useless. The demand is for good service, not for multiplicity of exchanges. Then, too, the expense of two systems must be considered. This is just double, and in some cases more than double. Oh! no, don’t give us more telephone exchanges, but better service. This is the need of the hour. The amendment ought to carry.”

The Bowling Green, Ky., Times-Journal says:

“We cannot too highly commend the Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to secure the adoption of this amendment by the voters. The Times-Journal is for the amendment, and will add its efforts to those of the Chamber of Commerce to bring about the adoption.”

The Paducah, Ky., Sun says:

“The public interest is thoroughly protected under the proposed constitutional amendment, as no purchase can be made without the consent of the city council. The passage of the bill providing for the constitutional amendment and the practically unanimous vote it received in the General Assembly is evidence that it was passed in response to a wide spread and popular demand for relief from present telephone conditions.”

The Middlesboro, Ky., Three States says:

“Three States has for a number of years in the past been a constant agitator for the one telephone system, showing where the one system could better and more economically serve the public than two or more systems. The expense of two systems is burdensome upon the public and the botheration and confusion of having the walls of your place of business lined with telephones, where one could do the work is sufficient reason why the public should demand one system.”

DAIRYING AND SOIL CULTURE

DISEASES OF COWS.

Bloat or Hoven is Most Often Caused by Eating Wet Clover.

Bloat in cattle is also known as hoven, or tympanites. It is characterized by a filling up of the left flank and by the formation of gas, writes G. H. Conn, D. V. M., in Kimball’s Dairy Farmer. It is brought about by a wide variety of conditions, but chiefly by eating spoiled feed or feed that is wet with dew or rain, or it may result from eating too fast, which produces indigestion, with a rapid fermentation and formation of gas. It may also result from choke, due to the closing of the gullet, which prevents the belching of the gas, and consequently the retention of gas causes the bloating. It may also result from the eating of frozen roots or grass or vegetables, such as turnips, cabbage, and the like. It is caused most often from eating clover which is wet with dew or rain and in many cases is fatal before the animal is found.

The swelling in the left flank becomes so great that it sometimes extends above the level of the back. Breathing becomes fast and difficult. The eyes have an anxious and painful expression. As bloating continues the animal shows symptoms of great pain and may reel and stagger when it walks. Death is caused from the pressing forward of the diaphragm upon the lungs, which results in asphyxiation.

If the animal is in immediate danger it should be tapped immediately. If it is not possible to procure immediately a trocar, which is made especially for tapping, use a sharp butcher or pocket knife. Do not attempt to procure antiseptics and sterilize the spot where the incision is to be made if the cow is in immediate danger. The animal should be tapped midway between the last rib and the point of the hip and about the same distance from the backbone. When the animal is not in immediate danger a rope gag is made by tying knots in a rope and placing this bunch of knots in the mouth and passing the ends of the rope up over the head, where they are tied. The animal by chewing the knots in an effort to dislodge them will cause the secretion of saliva with swallowing. The gas will then pass off by way of the gullet or esophagus.

There are several anti-ferments that are good for the treatment of bloat in preventing the formation of the gas. From two to four tablespoonfuls of spirits of turpentine given in one-half pint of linseed oil or in milk will sometimes be all that is required. Possibly the best treatment is one-half tablespoonful of formalin in one quart of water as a drench. This treatment has been credited to workers at the Kentucky State Agricultural college.

OVERALLS FOR HORSES.

Method of Protecting Animals From Flies in Hot Weather.

The following way of protecting horses against flies, described in Popular Mechanics, might be found useful in other regions than those mentioned: During the summer months, in the Canadian agricultural communities adjacent to Hudson and James bays, farmers are forced to swathe their horses in heavy cotton overalls to save them from the painful bites of big bull flies. These insects are very prevalent in the fields and make necessary the use of coverings that will protect practically all of an animal’s body. As a rule, the legs of a horse are left bare below the knees, but with this exception and that of his nose he is fully clothed. The hood that fits over the head covers the ears and has small openings to accommodate the eyes. When robed in this way the horses are able to work without serious interference.

See That Collars Fit.

Farm horses usually begin the spring’s work in good condition and during the early spring and summer shrink rapidly in weight. Collars fit all right at the start, but soon the necks are smaller and the collars are loose, and if the weather is hot shoulder trouble begins. Then the “sweat” pad is put in to fill out the collar to fit the neck, which it does not do at all. The draft against the neck remains unchanged, and the poor horse goes ahead pushing against a collar that does not hug close to the neck. A good teamster will look to the collar adjustment every morning before he leaves the stable.

The Dairy Cow.

Give the dairy cow sufficient care and feed for best results and handle her products in the most sanitary way necessary for production of best human food.

Improve the Dairy Herd.

Weed out the poor producing cow. Use a pure bred sire. Save all calves from best producing cows.

Monthly and Annual Report Cards for COUNTRY SCHOOLS

The News has just printed a few hundred neat and attractive monthly, and annual report cards, that are designed to meet the requirements of the rural schools of Breckinridge county, and are, according to the teachers who are using them, complete in every way.

We are selling these cards to the teachers at 1c each, and, as hardly any school will need over 50 or 60 of them the cost is small compared with the time it usually takes to fill out the old style card.

Send your orders direct to this office with your remittance. Purchaser to pay postage.

All horned cattle intended for the feed lots next winter should be dehorned as soon as the weather will permit so that the wounds will heal before the cattle are put on full feed.

There are advantages in dehorning cattle that the cattle feeder can not overlook. It makes the cattle more easily and safely handled in the feed lot and each animal is assured of a more nearly equal chance at the feed trough. Also it avoids the bruised condition of the flesh and torn hides caused by cattle goring each other in the feed lots and in transit to market as well as excessive shrinkage in transit.

SECOND DRAFT ARRANGED FOR

Greater Sympathy for Personal
Interests of Men to Be Shown.

WASHINGTON, October 14.—Regulations for the second draft will be laid before the secretary of war within a few days. The provision against the expenditure of draft money before it becomes necessary has been stricken from the urgent deficiency bill, and this will leave the army free to continue the examination of eligibles. Secretary Baker will decide the date for calling the examination of eligibles further down the list.

As the new regulations go to Secretary Baker for his approval it is believed they will show a greater sympathy for the personal interests of the men drafted. Because of the urgency of getting men in time to train an army of 500,000 immediately the government was forced to take into account only its military interest in the first draft.

Appeal Made to Congress.

An appeal to Congress to prevent the sending of a draft army to Europe on the ground that it violates the Constitution was received by Vice President Marshall from Hannis J. Taylor, former minister to Spain, and was referred to the Military Committee.

Training work mapped out for National Guard and National Army divisions before they will be regarded as ready for duty abroad is based on a sixteen weeks' course of the most intensive work in the open, varied with lectures by American and allied officers. Scheduled announced put great stress on the necessity for night training, trench raiding, scouting, trench building and operations of all kinds which may be called for in actual combat. To give the men some respite Wednesday and Saturday afternoon will be kept free, except in the case of backward individuals or units. Target practice runs through the entire course and the schedules call for forty hours' training each week.

Lieutenants Responsible

A striking feature of the program is the fact that practically the entire sixteen weeks will be devoted to training individuals, platoons and companies. Brigade, divisional and even regimental exercises are reserved for a later period with some minor exceptions during the last weeks. Since the platoon, commanded by a lieutenant is the actual fighting unit in trench battles, the new regulations fix upon the lieutenants of each company the responsibility for the training of less than company units, so that they may get in close touch with their men.

Save the Sows.

Selling a brood sow at this time, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, is like killing the goose that laid the golden eggs.

When pork is selling at 18 cents or more a pound on the hoof, the hog breeder may be tempted to turn into cash all that he can sell; yet the department points out that the value of a brood sow which will produce such high-priced offspring is proportionately increased and she should be kept as the source of further and future profits. Since the beginning of the war the number of swine in all countries has decreased, and the decrease has been marked in some of the belligerent countries. In France, for example, in the three years just before January 1, 1917, the number of swine decreased 33.19 per cent.; during 1915 the number in Germany decreased 31.47 per cent.
